[REDACTED]

25X1A An airfield with RR spur track was located south of YEDROVO (35°37' E/57°55' N), near the village of VYPOLOZOVO, west of the road. It was surrounded by woods on all sides except on the north. A concrete runway, three hangars (behind these an underground fuel dump), and three five-story solid buildings were available at the field. The number of twin-engine bombers permanently stationed at the field from July to September 1948 was far in excess of one hundred. Intensive flight training [REDACTED] during good weather.
